

Company Timeline

1950's

John Darke commences trading as an electrical company in Oxford

1960's

D&T employs its first apprentices
Becomes member of NIC EIC and the JIB
Joins forces with Harold Taylor and Darke & Taylor is born

1980's

D&T becomes one of the largest electrical apprentice employers in the region

1970's

D&T purchases Hill Upton & Co, one of Oxford's first electrical installation businesses.

1990's

D&T outgrows its premises in central Oxford and plans move to new out of town HQ

2000's

D&T establishes its structured network cabling and renewables divisions
ISO14001 Environmental, CHAS and Constructionline Health & Safety Accreditations awarded

2010's

ISO9001 achieved and Fire & Security division established
Success at both industry and local business awards